| 90.00 | I was a very nervous student who was put at ease by my flight instructor, Brandon Stone, which made it possible for me to go up multiple times. The plane I flew in always looked like it was in a solid, flyable condition. I had good interaction with the owner who is very approachable. I think given who considerate their instructors are, with all flights having been good learning experiences and pleasant, this school deserves a Flight Training Experience Award. |

| 90.00 | This is a great flight school that's run really well. My first interaction with Slava(chief instructor) was a few years ago as I was looking around for work to get involved in the aviation industry, and, out of all the people I talked to, he was really the only one who saw my passion and willingly took time out of his work schedule to help train me and introduce me to the field. After a while of working, I decided that I wanted to start my flight training. I started and finished my PPL training with Pilot in Training Flight Academy, while flying with Brandon Stone, and was very pleased by the whole process. All of the flight instructors prioritized safety and professionalism over everything. Going into my check ride, I felt very confident in my knowledge and practical skills after completion of the program. Even after I finished my official PPL training, Slava and his team helped me continue my aviation education career at Auburn University's professional flight program. |
| 90.00 | Pilot in Training Flight Academy absolutely deserves this award. I earned both my Private Pilot License (PPL) and Instrument Rating (IFR) with them, and looking back, I couldn't have asked for a better experience. From the very first discovery flight to my checkride, the training was professional, safety-focused, and deeply personal. The instructors I worked with were all outstanding: knowledgeable, patient, and dedicated to helping me succeed. The owner, Slava, genuinely cares about every student's progress and ensures a supportive learning environment where you feel like part of the aviation community. The academy's emphasis on safety, precision, and real-world readiness gave me the skills and confidence to fly comfortably and safely in busy airspaces. Since moving to San Diego, I now fly almost daily—including to airports like Las Vegas and Phoenix Sky Harbor, and even over the Grand Canyon—and I credit the quality of my training at Pilot in Training for making that possible. They don't just train pilots—they build confident, capable aviators. I wholeheartedly recommend them and believe they represent everything a great flight school should be. |

Their instructors are energetic and willing to help their students achieve their personal goals in aviation. At the core of the school's success is the owner, Slava, whose active and personal involvement in daily operations sets the tone for a profound safety culture. Safety is not just a policy but the highest priority. This is evident in their meticulous approach to maintenance, where aircraft issues and engine replacements are addressed with urgency and diligence. The school goes above and beyond industry standards, particularly by extending the post-replacement engine burn-in period—a critical time statistically—to ensure every aircraft is not just airworthy, but demonstrably safe for its students and instructors. The quality of instruction at Pilot in Training is superb. The certified flight instructors are genuinely passionate about teaching and mentorship, focusing on developing skilled, confident pilots rather than simply accumulating flight hours. Their dedication creates a supportive and effective learning atmosphere. Furthermore, the school fosters a collaborative and efficient environment by empowering its students. Direct access to the scheduling system allows students to book their own lessons, cutting down on administrative delays and giving them greater control over their training journey. This modern, streamlined approach makes the entire process more accessible and user-friendly. Finally, Pilot in Training offers excellent value. The costs are reasonable for the high level of service and safety provided, and the school offers attractive discounts for students who deposit funds in advance, making quality flight training more affordable. |

10. Net Promoter Score

10.1 Questionnaire Responses

The Net Promoter Score is generated by asking customers how likely they would be to recommend a given product or service - in this case, your services as a flight instructor to another potential customer, on an 11 point scale.

How likely are you to recommend your CFI to someone interested in flight training?

| Response Choice | Frequency | % |
|-----------------|-----------|------|
| 10 | 43 | 100% |

10.2 NPS Grouping

Responses to this question are then used to sort customers into one of three groups:

Detractor: Less likely to use your services again and may not speak highly of your services to others.

Passive: Generally somewhat satisfied, passive respondents likely won't help or hurt your business in talking to other people.

Promoters: Ideally, all of your customers would be promoters. Promoters would fly with you again in the future and would tell others how great they think you are.

| Response Choice | Frequency | % |
|-----------------|-----------|------|
| Promoter | 43 | 100% |

10.3 Standardized Score Calculation

The overall Net Promoter Score is calculated by subtracting the percentage of your customers who are 'detractors' from the percentage of your customers you are 'promoters.' Thus, the overall Net Promoter Score can range from -100 to 100.
